Maximón Margarita 18

Pasote Blanco Tequila, Dry Curaçao, Agave, Lime, Salt

CLASSIC	SPICY	MEZCAL
---------	-------	--------

The margarita (Spanish for “daisy”) is a variation on a popular American drink, the Daisy, remade with tequila instead of brandy. Tequila rose in popularity during Prohibition as people travelled over the border in search of spirits. The first mention of the drink was in 1936 in an Iowa newspaper article by James Graham, who found the drink in Tijuana.

SOUTHERN MEXICO | The flavor of this mezcal can have intensely “green” flavors due to the large amount of wax covering it's leaves. It grows in areas with heavy precipitation during the rainy season and it uses this wax as a defense mechanism. It has very low genetic and morphological variation within the species, so differences in flavor clearly reveal the production decisions of the mezcalero.

MEZCALES DE CELEBRACIÓN

PECHUGA, ELOTE | Before celebratory events such as birth, weddings, and quinceaneras, locals will bring their goods like fruit, nuts, and livestock to the mezcalero who will redistill their product with those items in the still. (Not all of these products contain livestock, some are vegetarian and only contain produce.) These are traditionally produced exclusively for these events and to be given as gifts for enjoyment during a consequential birthday or anniversary.

MEZCALES DE CAMPO & ENSAMBLES

Ensamble (also sometimes called “del campo”) mezcals are made with a combination of different agave subspecies. With an ancestral mezcal production, the mezcalero is fairly mobile. They often follow a water source, harvesting whatever species they find and distilling them together. This nomadic way of working protects the fields from over-harvesting and ensures that a mezcalero uses all agave, instead of just the species that are the most sought after.
