AGAVE TEQUILANA

There are over 200 species of agave, the majority indigenous to Mexico. While many types of agave are used in creating mezcal, there is only one type that is used in the making of tequila, agave tequilana, also known as "blue agave."

AGAVE KARWINSKII

TECHUACAN VALLEY & CENTRAL OAXACA | This species can be divided into two variants, those with low sugar and high sugar. Those with low sugar have concentrated acidity and bitterness with coffee notes (cuixe, largo, tobasiche). The high sugar variants produce brighter and fruitier distillates and sometimes nutty flavors (madrecuixe, bicuixe, barril).

AGAVE POTATORUM

OAXACA & PUEBLA | Known as the king of agave, this small agave is highly sought after. It thrives on rocky hillsides under the shade of an oak tree, making the harvest difficult and time consuming. It is fairly sweet and produces nutty and buttery flavors with hints of tropical fruit. Once considered impossible to cultivate, this maguey is now grown in nurseries throughout Oaxaca.

AGAVE CONVALLIS

Jabali is Spanish for “wild boar.” This rare agave is always harvested wild in small quantities as it grows on cliffsides at high altitudes. It is a difficult agave to work with in fermentation and distillation due to the high level of protein structures which will foam and increase pressure in the still, occasionally causing it to explode. It produces exotic mezcals with an herbaceous and vegetal flavor profile.

AGAVE MARMORATA

SOUTHERN MEXICO | The flavor of this mezcal can have intensely “green” flavors due to the large amount of wax covering it's leaves. It grows in areas with heavy precipitation during the rainy season and it uses this wax as a defense mechanism. It has very low genetic and morphological variation within the species, so differences in flavor clearly reveal the production decisions of the mezcalero. These gentle giants may take upwards of 25 years to reach maturity.

SAN LUIS POTOSI & ZACATECAS | This species plays an important role in the history of mezcal production as it was one of the more popular species used in making pulque, a fermented agave beverage that pre-dates distillation. Juicy and vegetal flavors define these approachable mezcales.

MEZCALES DE CAMPO Y ENSAMBLES

With an ancestral mezcal production, the mezcalero has the potential to be mobile due to the lightweight nature of the still and use of natural materials. Historically many mezcaleros would follow a fresh water source, using whatever agave they find in their general vicinity. This nomadic way of working protects the fields from over-harvesting, allows agave to reproduce naturally through their quixote, and ensures that a mezcalero uses all available agave, instead of only the most sought after species.

SOTOL

Sotol, is a spirit closely related to Mezcal in flavor and production, but made from a plant of a different genus in the Asparagaceae family, Dasylirion. These plants are commonly referred to as "the Desert Spoon."

DASYLIRION WHEELERI

CHIHUAHUA, COAHUILA & DURANGO | This plant is the most commonly used in the making of sotol and inhabits rocky hillsides and grasslands. Its flavors range from earth, smoke, and pepper to fruit and herb.

DASYLIRION CEDROSANUM

CHIHUAHUA, COAHUILA & DURANGO | Sotol plants strongly capture the terroir in their flavor profiles. Dasylirion cedrosanum can be found growing in the Sierra Madre Occidental highlands reflecting strong grass and mineral notes with hints of pine and cedar.

DASYLIRION LEIOPHYLLUM

CHIHUAHUA, COAHUILA & DURANGO | Found in the Chihuahuan Desert, this sotol produces herbal, earthy, leathery flavors reminiscent of the arid climate.
